FIFA 22 introduces HyperMotion Technology, a motion capture driven game engine that brings players' movements into the real-time game in one of the most authentic, natural and immersive ways possible.

Using the data collected from 22 high-intensity football matches, players can now move, attack, pass and shoot in FIFA 22 like never before - in a way that their actions really react to their movements and vice versa. FIFA 22 also builds on all of the lessons learned from the development of the eASI simulation technology powering FIFA 18, and adds features that will give players more control over their decision making. Powers of Armour: The ASI Tech of FIFA 22 eASI - High Impact, High Precision Impact by Fitness

First eASI is a physics based shooting system using a full physics engine to create a truly predictive game. The engine on the eASI controller is used to power the dynamic look and feel of the game. For example, the physics engine will keep in-play vehicles on their wheels and not allow them to slide across the pitch. An innovative artificial intelligence (AI) system called "ASI" intelligently makes player and team decisions using the ASI tech physics engine, improving on already accurate match prediction from PES game play accuracy. The AI system will keep players in the correct position on the pitch, while making correct decision to defend, attack, cross, hold up, shoot etc. The ASI technology intelligently identifies an attack, or goals, and makes the player apply a specific kind of challenge to the ball while playing to stop it. Other players will automatically react to that challenge. Challenge Shots: A new way to improve decision making No season in any sport has more match-ups than a FIFA football match. Now, challenge shots are a way to separate the true pros from the fakes. The challenge shot system is an experimental feature, so it will be available to players in selected leagues and later will become available in all leagues around the globe. The challenge shot system is a way to tell which players know how to play and are true professionals. Players who don't have it are usually fakes. Player ratings do not tell the whole story of skill and real ability. For example, a player with a poor rating but very high potential will struggle with a particular challenge shot move. A better example is a player with

Collect and manage your favorite players from the elite professional leagues. Compete in real time matches to prove your skill and be the ultimate gamer. Developed alongside the most powerful real time match engine ever, players will live and breathe on every matchday as you battle for glory. THE PASSES Think you know the best through balls? Prove it. Controls The controls for FIFA on the PlayStation 4 are very close to the controls for FIFA on the Xbox 360, and even the PC. The buttons for the sticks are the same (with the exception of left and right stick control on the PC, and right stick control on the 360), and there are some slight differences in how the face buttons work, but they all work the same way. Some differences between the 360 and PS4 version of the game are that the directional buttons use the triggers (previously used to map attacks to) and the touchpad's sensitivity has been increased. The D-pad for movement is much easier to use than it was on the PS3, and it's hard to go back to using the analog stick after moving to the D-pad. To access the HUD in the game, you can just hold the PS button; to access the setup menu, press and hold the PS button. Looking at the ball will be easy for most players at first, as the face buttons will be used most often. The right and left stick will have slightly different functions: To let the ball roll, use the right stick, and use the left stick to control the movement of the player. To pass and shoot will require using both sticks, as left stick controls the ball movement and right stick controls the player. Another major factor in the controls is the running mechanism. FIFA has always had a very fluid running system, and the moving of players along with the animated player skin has not changed from the PS3 to the PS4. To run, press the corresponding face buttons with the sticks while pressing the sprint button. For a stationary player, press the push buttons with the sticks while pressing the sprint button. There are two types of sprints - forward sprints and backward sprints. Forward sprints allow players to move quickly to a certain direction, while backward sprints will move the player backward. You can sprint while in possession of the ball, and pressing the sprint button cancels the running animation. The Pause button will pause the game for a certain amount of time. The game is also

What's new in Fifa 22:

- All-new Match Days - FIFA 22 introduces an improved match simulation. On any given day, players switch positions on the fly and teammates switch team roles to adapt to the opponent's tactical approach. Then, as the game unfolds, the match shifts into high-impact gameplay with a series of unpredictable events in real time. Players shift directions, jostle for space and each team will attempt their best to seize control of possession. The result is a thrilling and unpredictable match that can be the most exciting FIFA game yet.
- Adapt to the environment and the match flow on a moment's notice.
- Survive the day with tactics that adapt to the most unpredictable environments. FIFA 22 introduces a Variation system that reacts to condition-specific insights and reacts adaptively in highly-charged moments of the match. Will you be ready?
- Customise the look of your gamer character, your shirt and customise the kits of the team you'll start your match as.
- The MUT Squads Mode will enable players to get to grips with the team stars of the past and present. The difficulty of customising and assembling the perfect team can be personalised through specialization.
- The Map Mode introduces all-new perspectives that place you closer to the action. This Mode brings you into the same game space as your team-mates, offering you the opportunity to control player's movements as well as change team roles on the fly, and an all-new game perspective. This Mode includes a new camera system that allows for greater creativity in match setups.
