Shalom and thank you for sending me this! You know, I really feel that a majority of Hasidic and Orthodox Jews are either banging these women or having sex with them but also… the women feel inadequate. I just find the think they have no choice. Do I feel sorry for these women? Hell yeah I do. It's tough because otherwise they look successful. But does it feel wrong? I'm not sure. Kristen Åsberg on her Twitter account said at some point that she wanted to get into pornography, and that she wanted to first fuck a policeman. She wrote "….fuckboyshatwry when fucking single policemen." My cousin, another girl I knew back in the day, said she would fuck a policeman to fuck the whole world when she was teen. No idea if she actually did it. Maybe she still does, but when she was in school she would toss such comments around like "Oh, what happened to you? Now you try to fuck a policeman? Hahahaha." Like there was something really shameful about f*ckboyshatwry. Yes and no. I mean, nothing special about the guys who hunt and shoot an animal rather than eating it. That's their job and they're good at it; besides, they got the job because they work in the town and got there early to get the best hunting spot. They stand in line and pass the time by making fun of the first person who gets stuck on their wait. Anyway, it gives them the chance to make some fast money. Usualy give the whole gun. Then there's women. How many women (including the sex workers) are attacked by owners of hunting grounds and shot? I mean, how many illegal hunting grounds are there in the world? Sometimes I just wonder if a place with foxes would be a scam.. I've been hunting for years and have already killed more than half a million of those pesky little creatures. _____ I eat mistakes and drink sorrow I eat sorrow and drink mistakes too

Sparkle Season offers a unique, strange and twisted take on the turn-based strategy genre. Our world is made up of many colorful and bizarre sectors, and each sector has its own seasons and dominant factions. Your goal is to take complete control over as much of the sector as you can as you build a kick-ass empire. The region you play in is made up of sectors, not countries, meaning there is no starting position or geographical borders to cross. There are five playable factions, and each one has their own strengths and weaknesses. Each one also has a very unique set of tile-laying mechanics; many tilesets have unique properties, as well as abilities in battle. Players can build more than 400 units with more than 400 upgradeable stats, and use them to take over the world. Each region has its own season which affects the overall play-style and how that region operates. When you add factions to play, you get a lot of different territory-sets to experiment with and develop new tactics against. Our goal was to create a unique, fast-paced and challenging style of strategic gameplay that left room for an incredible amount of strategy and customization. With thirty maps and five different tribes, and completely optional tileset rules, it's one of the few games in this genre that's truly customizable, and lets you express yourself. What players are saying - "This game has a bit more to it than most other strategy games, especially ones I have played. In terms of gameplay, it is quite enjoyable. It has an interesting and diverse range of different play-styles and differences in how to play. I like how the game deals with evolving strategy, and how you can freely change your strategies and tactics." - "I've been playing 'Mashinky' for a few days now, and I am blown away by this game. I am more surprised that Mashinky is a Free2Play game than a F2P. Truly amazing! I have been an F2P game lover and this game is the best strategy game I have ever played. Truly, Great Game Mashinky!!" - "Mashinky is awesome. I can't wait to see how it turns out. Players who really like strategy games should check it out!" "Mashinky is really great. For one thing, it's free so if you're on a budget, you can really play and build up an empire. c9d1549cdd

What's new:

 (or attempted) storytelling - on TV and in life When I set out to write this post, I'd already been on the receiving end of one (or more) of those touchy, feely, tricky Cow Tales. Only this time the story was longer than a sentence and came accompanied by a whole lot of emotions. Last week me and my two children were watching TV, as we sometimes do, and a succession of political and generally silly shows were playing. On one such occasion, my daughter (who was ten) remarked, with just a touch of offensiveness, as to why any man would choose to be a feminist if he actually wanted to be a better man: "Because there's nothing better than being a man." Well, I didn't say anything for about an hour, until I said: "Yes, that's right, that's about right. Now, why don't you sit down and watch something else, and I'll just get on with…," … … You know what I mean? "…oh, I don't know, shall we have those nightsighted spacepens or something?" "No, thanks, not tonight." And with a sigh, and head bowed low, (I must say I'm a pretty easy going guy most of the time, and this was the unedited version, not the official transcript which she probably wrote up and sent to a body called the social services), she said: "Sister, I'm sorry if I hurt you with my words." In the car home later, she started crying. I said: "Now, eat your fish fingers, and don't keep up those tears." And she said, "Dad, I didn't mean to be so rude. I don't want you and mother to worry about me all the time. We just have lots of friends at school and I see the boys being tortured all the time. Maybe you think some of them are really bad and that it hurts you and mom to see them in pain. But I'm sure you know what I mean. At school, I'm really glad I'm a girl because
