Schoeps studied with his father-in-law, the bass Eduard Seiffert, who at that time was part of the voice ensemble of the Dresdner Kreuzchor. He made his stage debut at the Staatsoper Stuttgart in 1925 as King Marke in Richard Strauss' opera Die Liebe der Danae. For the next 15 years, he sang mostly Heldenrolle at the Hofoper in Berlin and at the Liceu in Barcelona. He sang there as Kreuzritter in Alban Berg's opera Wozzeck in 1936. During the Second World War, he was employed as an adjutant in the civil service. After his retirement in 1962, he was active mainly in singing recitals, in particular on the occasion of the "Emil Hácha Jugendbühne" (consisting of young artists) at the Singakademie in Karlsruhe. Schoeps was married to singer Margot Fink, an opera singer who notably sang the title role in Ute Lemper's Lady Macbeth of Mzensk, and to Margot Schoeps, an opera and operetta singer who was active in the 1950s and 1960s.
