As you can see, the tradition of hanging the holly wreath in the window in time to the Christmas tree lighting doesn't exist in Arcadia. Any December 3 in town, you'll be able to witness the tree lighting. Although the Gucci store is still just down the street in West End, Arcadia has long been home to Gucci, Prada, Moet & Chandon, Versace, and A.T. Cross. A few of the stores remain on Winchester, but they are far smaller today, if they remain at all. The guys from Barstow will return for Arcadia's fireworks show at the Arcadia Bowl. During the show, you will see the old Arcadia for the first time. Between the start of the show, the fireworks spectacular, and the ending fireworks shot by those from Barstow, you will get a complete fireworks view of how this old little town used to look. Speaking of looking old, the Arcadia Bowl isn't quite like it used to be. So, if you can find it, look for Arcadia Bowl, "Still The World Champion" banners hanging from the big gate. What you'll find are lots of great memories and pictures from Arcadia's past. Hey guys so I have a new project and I was wondering how the hell I'd go about trying to make a smooth top hat out of resin. I can't seem to find any tutorials that have good detailed pics of actual parts or any real information on the topic. So any info would be very helpful Also I would like to know if it is at all possible to make the brim and the top of the hat wave naturally or would that only be possible with a wig with a lot more hair? I'm sure that is a pretty common question but I can't find anything about it. theres a small buck's hair wig store in Jiggling Springs, PA. Not a lot of hair, but for your purposes, workable. Also, check out the MJDFR for more info. There are some good tutorials for sculpting c6a93da74d
